How the coalition–opposition balance shifted

Change in each locality's balance between the Netanyahu coalition and the opposition from the 2022 to the 2026 Knesset election, grouped by how localities voted in 2022. A change of −0.10 means the gap between the two blocs moved 10 points toward the opposition.

Diamond: mean · whiskers: 95% confidence interval of the mean · box: middle half of localities, thin line: median

Balance = (coalition − opposition) ÷ (coalition + opposition) votes; Arab-party and other votes are excluded. Groups use 2022 results only.

2022 coalition: Likud, Religious Zionism, Shas, UTJ. Opposition: Yesh Atid, National Unity, Yisrael Beiteinu, Labor, Meretz.

2026 coalition: Likud, Shas, UTJ, Otzma Yehudit, Religious Zionism, Noam. Opposition: Yashar, Beyachad, the Democrats, Yisrael Beiteinu. HaMiluimnikim & HaKalkalit and Amcha Yisrael are unclassified.

Sources: Central Elections Committee 2022 final results; CEC 2026 results by locality, all boxes counted (31 Oct 2026, not yet certified). n = 1,212 localities.